

MAKING CHANGE HAPPEN NOW

Knowing the signs and symptoms. Quicker, earlier diagnosis. Access to treatments. We're campaigning to make change happen now.

With patient advocates, we helped make breast cancer drugs like Trodelvy and olaparib available on the NHS across the UK. Trodelvy is a drug that could extend thousands of lives. While olaparib could give some women a future free from breast cancer.

We secured a commitment from the government to define and count recurrent cancers in the recent National Cancer Plan for England. This means that for the first time, there's hope that people with metastatic (secondary) breast cancer will be properly counted. And hope that the NHS will be able to plan for services that properly meet their needs.

BREAST CANCER
NOW

We couldn't have done it without you.

By wearing pink and raising money, you could help fund more change-making campaigns.

Find out how you can get involved at:
breastcancernow.org/campaign

