YOU KNOW YOUR BODY BETTER THAN ANYONE

Getting to know how your breasts look and feel normally means you'll be able to notice any unusual changes.

A change to the way your breasts feel or look could be a sign of cancer. So get any new or unusual changes checked by a GP.

Most breast changes, including lumps, are not cancer. But the sooner breast cancer is found, the more successful treatment is likely to be.

CHECKING YOUR BREASTS IS AS EASY AS TLC

CHANGES TO LOOK AND FEEL FOR

There's no special way to check your breasts and you do not need any training. Everyone will have their own way of touching and looking for changes.

Get used to checking regularly and be aware of anything that's new or different for you.

Some of these signs and symptoms may appear differently on various skin tones.

Check your whole breast area, including up to your collarbone (upper chest) and armpits for changes.

A lump or swelling in the breast, upper chest or armpit

A change to the skin, such as puckering or dimpling

A change to the colour of the breast – the breast may look darker, red or inflamed

A nipple change, for example it has become pulled in (inverted)

Rash or crusting around the nipple

Unusual liquid (discharge)
from either nipple

Changes in size or shape of the breast

On its own, pain in your breasts is not usually a sign of breast cancer. But look out for pain in your breast or armpit that's there all or almost all the time.

These illustrations are meant as a guide. Check anything that looks or feels different for you with a GP.

ALL YOU NEED TO REMEMBER IS TLC

Breast cancer is most common in women over 50. While uncommon, it can also affect younger women.

Men can also get breast cancer, but this is very rare.

Get into the habit of regularly checking your breasts.
